Verses with the ring of genuine child's reasoning and childish fancy are few and far between, but Miss Sowerby's verses are distinctly of the number. These little poems recall Stevenson's "Child's Garden of Verse" more than any others and yet have a distinction of their own. They will be equally dear to children, and to grown-ups who love children.

Kathleen Norris in a great Modern novel

The Heart of Rachael

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

Author of "Mother," "Saturday's Child," "The Story of Julia Page," etc.

Frontispiece in color by C. E. Chambers. Net, $1.35

MRS. NORRIS shifts her canvas all the way across the continent in this new novel of a woman's heart. She deals here with men and women in New York instead of in California, as is the case in her former books; and she shows that, however much the manners and conventions of these two localities may differ, East is West and West is East when it comes to a question of the motives and principles that guide people.

In "The Heart of Rachael," Mrs. Norris has told a story of the corroding influence of modern society on domestic ideals. The biggest problem of social life to-day is divorce. In the latest census the startling total of more than 300,000 divorced people living in the United States was reached, and each year the number swells. Mrs. Norris has something to say about this and she says it not as one defending a theory but as a woman who has watched the courses of lives all about her and has appraised their strength and their weakness. Rachael Fairfax, a beautiful girl possessed of potential strength of character, marries and faces some of the hardest problems that a woman is called upon to solve. Mrs. Norris has no need to overdraw her picture; all the elements of romance, of tragedy, of achievement are in the situation she presents and it is the final wresting of victory from a cumulation of errors and entanglements that shows the growth in strength and beauty of Rachael's soul.

The Official Biography of O. Henry

An O. Henry Biography

By C. ALPHONSO SMITH
Author of "What Can Literature Do For Me?"

~~Two~~ Volume~~s~~. ~~Boxed.~~ Cloth, One Net ~~$2.50~~; 1.85
Leather, Net, ~~$3.50~~ 1.65

ONE of the most interesting contributions to contemporary literary history is a life of Sidney Porter (O. Henry) just completed.

Professor C. Alphonso Smith, of the Department of English in the University of Virginia, has been engaged upon the actual writing of the book for the past three years; and for many years prior to that he was gathering from all parts of the country valuable material for an illuminating commentary upon O. Henry's life and writings.

Most interesting facts have recently come to light about O. Henry's residence in Central America and similar information about other periods of his life were in the possession of old friends.

Professor Smith's volume is to be issued in a handsome library edition, two volumes, large size. Also in Flexible Red Leather uniform with the regular O. Henry leather books. It contains about ten or fifteen illustrations. An idea of its thoroughness and interest will be apparent from the following table of contents:

I. His Life and His Stories
II. His Readers
III. His Ancestry
IV. His Birthplace and Early Years
V. His Life in Texas and Honduras
VI. His Working Years in New York
VII. His Themes
VIII. His Workmanship.

How Short can a Short Story Be?

HOW short can a short story be? Life, wishing to solve this problem, held recently a very interesting contest. A prize of $1,000 was offered for the best original story under 1,500 words in length, and second and third prizes of $500 and $250. In addition to these prizes, every story accepted by Life as good enough to enter the competition was to be paid for at the rate of ten cents for every word under 1,500 words which the author did not write! That is, a story of 1499 words would be worth 10 cents; a story of 500 words would be worth $100, and so on.

Short Stories from "Life"

THE 81 PRIZE STORIES IN "LIFE'S" SHORTEST STORY CONTEST

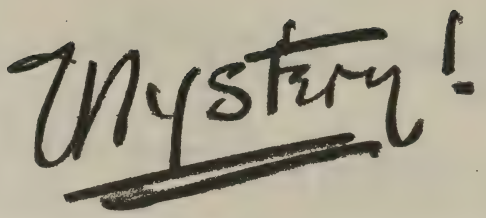
With an Introduction by
THOMAS L. MASSON
The Editor of "Life."

Net, $1.25

This unique contest aroused great interest among the best American short story writers. More than 30,000 MSS. were received by Life. Of these, 81 were selected as the best, and these are the stories which appear in this book.

Eighty-one short stories, all under 1,500 words, vivid, unconventional, some by established writers and some by authors still unknown to the public, make this a book of unusual interest. Thomas L. Masson, the well known editor of Life and compiler of humorous anthologies, contributes an introduction.

It cost Life more than $12,000 to collect these stories. The reader may have it for $1.25 net.



"Pay what debts I can.
Kill you, if the strength—"

The candlestick slipped from Wilkins's fingers and clattered on the boards. His whisper failed. Like a man already dead he crumpled and fell to the stage, without a cry, without a saving gesture. . . From the stage came the measured beat of limping footsteps.

The House of Fear

By C. WADSWORTH CAMP

Author of "Sinister Island," etc.

Illustrated. Net, $1.35

FOR the second time in the star revival of "Coward's Fare," it seemed that death had forbidden Bertram Woodford's great line to be spoken — the same line where, forty years earlier, the great actor himself had died.

First it had been Carlton in Woodford's rôle who had dropped dead from an unseen hand at the first rehearsal of the scene. Followed a series of astonishing incidents beginning with the mysterious warnings that came faintly over the telephone as if from a world beyond, to the events of the night when Quaile, the author, fought with Woodford's ghost in "The House of Fear." Now the collapse of Wilkins on the eve of the production but confirmed the belief that Bertram Woodford's jealous spirit still haunted the vast spaces of his old theatre and would allow no man to play his part.

Who won in this duel with the supernatural? Did the revival of "Coward's Fare," take place? Did Wilkins finally play Woodford's famous scene?

The answer to these questions comes in a climax as stirring as it is unexpected. Closely interwoven with the veil of mystery is a love story that heightens the tension of the book.

Remember the "Mixer" in Ruggles of Red Gap

THE thousands of readers who so abundantly enjoyed "Ruggles of Red Gap," will be a good deal more than pleased to know of this collection of stories by Harry Leon Wilson, about "the Mixer," the character that created so much mirth in "Ruggles."

Somewhere in Red Gap

By HARRY LEON WILSON
Author of "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Bunker Bean," etc.

Illustrated. Net, $1.35

The stories all centre in Red Gap, Wash.; and "the Mixer" is the same delectable combination of tender-hearted woman and "hail-fellow-well-met."

All the stories are quite up to the mark set by "Ruggles," but perhaps the funniest here is the one in which "the Mixer" undertakes to stage-manage a promising love affair with the aid of sentimental music. "The Rosary" failed of its purpose in this case, but the servants of the household took to it mightily and whistled the tune to an extent disastrous to the Mixer's nervous system.

"Somewhere in Red Gap," will make bright any dark day.

NORA ARCHIBALD SMITH

"The Children's Crimson Classics"

Sixteen Illustrations

Net, $1.50

EVERY mother knows that it is the old, familiar fairy stories, the time-worn nursery rhymes, above all the old, old tales from the old, old book, that her children love best.

Nora Archibald Smith has re-told these Bible stories with loving care. Especially has she preserved the spirit and charm of the text by keeping where possible to the familiar Biblical phrases. The stories are simply written, with their greatest appeal to children from six to twelve years old though no one can ever outgrow them. Surely there is no better road to an appreciation of the best literature than through these old Bible Narratives.

Miss Smith is already well known to children and parents through the Crimson Classics Series of which she is co-editor with her sister, Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Some of the "Old, Old Tales" are:

Our Army and Navy?
All the facts are here

Military and Naval America

By
CAPTAIN H. S. KERRICK

Maps, diagrams and illustrations. Net, ~~$1.60~~ 2.00

CAPTAIN KERRICK'S book answers practically all questions that anyone would be likely to ask concerning every department of the Army and the Navy. For example, how our army compares with the armies of all the other Powers; what the quartermaster general's department does; what signal code is used by the Navy; what the requirements are for admission to West Point; the mechanism of the rifle used by the Army; all about the aviation corps; and thousands of similar questions on both branches of the service. Every department of our defensive equipment is treated separately and in detail, including exact figures, original photographs, and accurate diagrams. An enormous amount of precise information is packed into the narrative without detracting from its crisp and vivid style.

It is a complete handbook of facts that is also "easy reading," invaluable alike to citizens interested in preparedness, to the man who wants to know, to young men contemplating a military career, to parents who are interested in a military school for their boy, and to the general reader who wishes to understand the things behind the war news.

Captain Kerrick was granted a special leave of absence in order that he might work with the War Department in collecting and verifying data for this book. No pains were spared to make this authoritative to the smallest detail, and to this end each chapter has been approved by the greatest authority, military or naval, on the subject dealt with.

The real Story of Mount Vernon

Mount Vernon

WASHINGTON'S HOME AND THE NATION'S SHRINE

By PAUL WILSTACH

Author of "Richard Mansfield, the Man and the Actor," etc.

48 illustrations, Net, $2.00
De Luxe Edition (Limited to 203 copies). Net, $10.00

MR. WILSTACH has found a remarkably fertile field for his labors in this story of Mount Vernon. It is not only a valuable contribution to our knowledge of George Washington's home, but it is written in a way to leave one with many indelible impressions of this Colonial mansion on the Potomac.

Mr. Wilstach has made a hobby of Washington's home. He tells its story from the first deed of gift to the land lying on the Potomac down through the days of the Revolution and afterward when Mount Vernon became the veritable capital of the nation. Mr. Wilstach has been closely associated with Mr. Dodge, custodian of the mansion for the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association, and with Mr. Lawrence Washington, now connected with the Congressional Library. From both of these gentlemen he has received valuable suggestions and advice which make his volume in many respects the most authoritative story of the home of Washington that has ever been published.

In his researches Mr. Wilstach has brought to light a number of interesting and hitherto unpublished facts about the mansion, its occupants and its grounds. For the hundreds of thousands who have visited Mount Vernon and brought away with them a lasting memory of the peace and loveliness of the spot, and for those thousands who have never seen it, Mr. Wilstach's volume will stand in some sense as a worthy national tribute to the best-beloved home in the United States.

Do you remember "Kazan"?

The Grizzly King

A COMPANION STORY TO "KAZAN"

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Author of "Kazan," "The Hunted Woman," "God's Country—and the Woman," etc.

4 illustrations by Frank Hoffman. Net, $1.25

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD returns in his story of Thor, the biggest grizzly bear in the Rocky Mountains, to the manner and spirit of his early great success, "Kazan." Mr. Curwood's huge audience expect from him quickly mounting climax and excitement. And they will not be disappointed in that here. But those of his great following who are unacquainted with "Kazan" will find in "The Grizzly" qualities which they do not associate with this author—playful humor and fine tenderness, an amused and affectionate sympathy with the noble and exceedingly engaging hero, Thor, crusty old bachelor who adopts a motherless Black Bear cub.

Thor, weight a thousand pounds, overlord of vast stretches of earth, was a peaceful king, though he knew no fear, until he met his first man. He smelled him first, later he saw him, then he felt him—a terrible pain in his shoulder. Then for the first time in his life the dormant part of his instinct leaped into wakefulness, and he understood. He hated man, and hereafter he would hate everything that bore the man-smell.

Thor's entertaining habits in eating and sleeping, his visits to his doctor—a clay-wallow—and all his thoughts are given in a story that holds the reader bound in a spell. A number of popular fallacies about bears are brushed aside. This is at once a sound and a fascinating nature study and a stirring story of the great outdoors. It is certain to make a multitude of new friends for the author.

Again! Corra Harris and the Circuit Rider

A Thorn in the Flesh

THE EXPERIENCES OF A CIRCUIT RIDER'S WIDOW

By CORRA HARRIS

Author of "The Circuit Rider's Wife," "The Co-Citizens," "In Search of a Husband," etc.

Illustrated. Net, $1.50

MARY THOMPSON lived the wandering life of a circuit rider's wife for thirty-five years and then as the circuit rider's widow, continued to be the guide, mentor, philosopher and friend to the whole community. Mary Thompson was a saint with an inward longing to see a horse race, a very human saint with a strong sense of humor. Told in the first person, this novel by Mrs. Harris takes the reader into the very heart of a country community. There is the spinster who cultivated a jasmine bush so she could supply fresh flowers for all the funerals. The divorced woman with a fine voice and a charming presence who turned the choir upside down. The white-bearded old preacher who could see in Mary's whimsical speculations as to her origin nothing but a belief in the heretical doctrine of the transmigration of souls. A hundred people the reader comes to know as one knows one's next door neighbors. It is a capital book to read aloud. It is a book to be read with appreciation more than once.

"A Thorn in the Flesh" might almost be called a sequel to "The Circuit Rider's Wife." Certainly in delectable humor and characterization it resembles Mrs. Harris's earlier success.

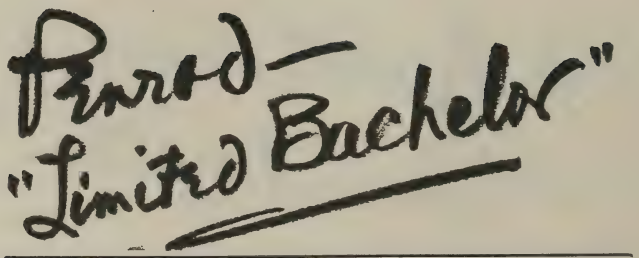
A Garden Book Con Amore

My Garden

By
LOUISE BEEBE WILDER

Illustrated. Net, $1.50

THERE are very few pleasures in this life much keener than walking with a true gardener through his or her garden. At every turn is a new plant, or an old one used in a new way, that we must needs hear about and quickly jot down in our memory for future use. "And what do you do for hollyhock rust, and how do you keep the field mice from eating all your bulbs? What have you planted to take the place of that mass of creeping phlox when its luscious color has departed?" The day is far too short in which to hear all the store of wisdom and experience and enlightening anecdote that the true amateur gardener could give you. So one of these has put it all into a book—just a transcription of that delightfully informal conversation upon the garden path—the things that do well and why and where, the plants that give the needed color at awkward seasons and what should follow and precede them. A veritable treasure-store of garden lore.



Penrod and Sam

By BOOTH TARKINGTON
Author of "Penrod"

Illustrated by Worth Brehm

Cloth, net, $1.35
Leather, net, $1.65

EVERYBODY fears that the time will come when Penrod will grow up. That dread time, however, is not yet. The new collection of Penrod stories, "Penrod and Sam," continues the exciting early history of a "limited bachelor set," which consists of Messrs. Penrod Schofield and Samuel Williams, attended now and then by one Herman, colored. Penrod is the same young irrepressible—he has not changed a hair. Still at the magic age of twelve, he enters such glorious places as the "gentleman's dressing room," and continues to learn something of the ways of love, particularly as they relate to the heart of Marjorie Jones.

He here stages a movie show with indescribably funny results. The reader becomes acquainted, too, in these pages with a remarkable cat, "part panther or something," a cat which though wanted by the police was not found. There is also a severe outbreak of cavalry in the Schofield neighborhood, an outbreak which rivals the great war. A dramatic incident occurs to Herman, terrified at finding himself in "White Folk's House."

At times Penrod's heart is embittered with critical disapproval of the Creator's methods—but why go on? All there is to be said is that this time again

PENROD STRIKES TWELVE!

FROM "PENROD AND SAM"

"Penrod did not reply. His expression had become peculiar, and the peculiarity of his manner was equal to that of his expression."
An amusing situation from Booth Tarkington's new group of boy stories.

MORNING FACE

This is Gene Stratton-Porter's first book for children.

GENE STRATTON-PORTER'S
FIRST BOOK FOR CHILDREN

Morning Face

By the author of
"Laddie," "Freckles," "A Girl of the Limberlost," "Michael O'Halloran," Etc.

THE keynote of joyousness is struck by the title "Morning Face," since the words represent the inspired idea of R. L. Stevenson in his verse, "If I have . . . shown no morning face," etc. About this idea Gene Stratton-Porter has made this book for children.

Although many tens of thousands of children have read and loved "Freckles" and her other books, this is the first time she has made a book specially for the youngsters. In prose and verse she gives her word-pictures of the buds, the flowers, and the life of the out-of-doors in a way which will delight all of her little friends, and the elaborate illustrations being from her own hand give pleasing unity to the book.

Do you like Conrad?
Then read this story

Casuals of the Sea

By WILLIAM McFEE
Author of "Aliens," and "Letters From an Ocean Tramp"

Net, $1.50

THIS book has a fascination hard to describe. One's heart is so inevitably enlisted in the fortunes of Bert and Minnie that the mere reading of the story seems a personal experience. Mr. McFee, though practically unknown here, is gifted in a remarkable degree. It is no exaggeration to say that if this book were attributed to any of three or four distinguished novelists now living in England it would take rank as a work of rare distinction. McFee's life suggests that of Joseph Conrad; both are of the Sea; and it is not unfair to either to place their work side by side, although different in method and temper.

The hero of the novel is really the Gooderich family—a poor household in north London, a very human, very lovable, very appealing little group of persons cast upon the mysterious ocean of life and ill equipped to reach any glorious haven.

The novel is realistic in the highest sense; true to the curious slips and chances that govern the lives of the poor. The growth of the three children in a London suburb; Minnie's cool-headed adventures with Mr. Gilfillan of the Gilfillan Filaments; Hannibal's experiences in the tobacco shop called The Little Brown Box and his great adventure when he ships as engine-room mess boy on the S. S. Caryatid—these curiously twisted skeins of life are described with humorous tenderness and a convincing sense of reality.

Mr. McFee is himself an engineer on a tramp steamer. His description of Hannibal's life at sea is marvellously well done. One sees the gleaming pistons of the Caryatid's engine-room; smells the oil and hot metal; savors the wide blue spaces of the embracing sea.

Amazing Tales of the Malays

The Further Side of Silence

By SIR HUGH CLIFFORD
Author of "Malayan Monochromes," etc.

Net, $1.35

HERE is a volume of amazing tales by a man who has held almost every civil position in the British Malay Service and who is now Governor of the Gold Coast. In this day it is not given to many to have firsthand experience with aboriginal people or to spend a decade or two in the heart of an untouched jungle. Yet this has been the great adventure of Sir Hugh Clifford who entered as a youth under twenty the British civil service in Malaya, went up and down the Malay Archipelago in intimate touch with the native tribes, and saw a continent and its people before the coming of Western civilization.

In this volume of stories Sir Hugh Clifford has brought together some of the astonishing experiences of his life, stories filled with the wonder, terror, superstition and legendary beliefs of Malay and Sakaï tribes. They not infrequently make one's hair stiffen and yet many of them attain to a height of exceptional beauty, pathos and tenderness. The love idyl which is the title-story of the book, to give but one instance, has rarely been equalled, we think, for its wild beauty and its passionate cry for the loveliness of the world—a cry forever in the human heart.

Lovers of Conrad will do well to note this book. Both Conrad and Clifford write of the Malay Country. They approach it from different points of view and to read Clifford is to make the jungle and its people intensely real, full of a myriad shifting lights, a world in which one lays hand upon the oldest wisdom, the deepest superstition, and the blackest magic that life has bred.

Ernest Thompson Seton's First Novel

The Preacher of Cedar Mountain

A Tale of the Open Country

By Ernest Thompson Seton

IT IS a great pleasure for Doubleday, Page & Company to announce Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton's first novel, "The Preacher of Cedar Mountain." Mr. Seton's books about animals have had so wide a sale that his readers will be glad to know he has written a novel as good in its free and stirring open air feeling as any of the tales about his four-legged friends.

The chief character—the preacher—is a most whimsical and delightful figure, and the author thus describes him:

> He was standing by the counter in the Post Office the first time he appeared upon the scene. Six foot four, broad and straight, supple and easy—with the head of a Greek God, in a crown of golden curls—and a dash of wild hilarity in his keen blue eyes that suggested a Viking and royal pirate rather than the type of farther South.
> He was the handsomest man I ever saw—and when I heard him talk, it was in a rollicking strain, full of fun and colored with a winsome Irish brogue that lent new charm to a personality already dangerously gifted. Nature had dowered him with every gift she ever gave to man—bar one. It was as though she said: "Now let us make a perfect man." So she constructed one of the choicest heritages; she gave him beauty, strength with happy moods, magnetic power, compelling presence, a very flush of courage, and just as the perfect thing was nearly ready to go from the shop she said: "Pshaw! What's the use?" and gave a tired, impatient kick. Bill bore the traces of that kick in everything he did—he had no common sense.

There is never a man born with great endowments but that there is also born a woman to set him right, to guide and stimulate him. So we see Mary come into his life, and, unknown to herself or him, place him in a new atmosphere. Her practical sense, her initiative and courage, have a gradual effect upon him and lead him to a position in his world which, without her, he could never have aspired to.

Verdun! The Living Wall of Men

"ILS NE PASSERONT PAS!" THE LIVING WALL OF VERDUN

"Soldiers of the Army of Verdun! . . . Night and day, despite a bombardment without precedent, you have resisted all attacks and maintained our positions . . . the country has its eyes upon you. You will be among those of whom it will be said: 'They barred the way of the Germans to Verdun.'" — GENERAL JOFFRE.

"THEY SHALL NOT PASS!"

They Shall Not Pass!

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

Map

Net, $1.00

THIS was the cry that swept through the French lines at Verdun when the German onslaught was most terrible. It was the answer to Joffre's appeal to stop the Teuton advance. It raised up a wall of living men; it ran like fire through the trenches at the front; was taken up by the great masses of reserves awaiting action, and it remained the one intelligible sentence spoken over and over by shattered men in field hospitals.

No defense in human history has been more wonderful than this. The French general staff was prepared to evacuate Verdun for more advantageous ground on a height to the rear. Then, suddenly, it became apparent that Verdun to the French people, and equally to the enemy, had become the sign and symbol of victory; to hold it against all odds was a moral success far outweighing its strategic value. And so General Joffre called upon his troops in the famous words quoted above.

And they have not passed!

It is the story of this amazing response of a nation to its leader that Mr. Simonds tells in these pages and out of his clear, simple statement emerges the soul of a people purified by fire and welded indestructibly into one.

An African Mystery Tale

STEWART EDWARD WHITE IN A NEW FIELD

The Leopard Woman

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

Author of "The Gray Dawn," "Gold," etc.

Illustrated. Net, ~~$1.50~~ 1.31

DRAWING upon his wonderful knowledge of big game and the African Wilds, Stewart Edward White has written a romantic mystery story of a kind to keep the pulse working overtime. A secret mission takes the hero into Africa and he shortly becomes aware that a mysterious opponent called the Leopard Woman, an agent of the German Government, is there also to block his path. The adventures which follow take on the aspect of a duel in strength, cunning, knowledge of the wild and sheer nerve.

The equal of his heroine it would be hard to find in the whole field of fiction, a woman more terrible than lions, more beautiful than the magic tropic moon, cold as ice, and hot as fire,—the slim, splendid and exotic beauty, Bah-ya-chu, the woman of the Leopards.

In company with the best shot in Africa, the reader hears the lion roar, listens to the shrill titter of laughing hyenas. He sees the mirage dance and change; endures the Thirst; knows the sun glowing and terrible as a furnace; and mingles with swarms of shining naked people; beholds plumed warriors, a palace of ivory, the purple of savage state. He plays a diplomatic game for his life with His Majesty, a barbaric king, and learns the delicate trick of "getting on" in savage Africa.

TO THE READER (FROM THE Foreword):

THE letters in this story are real letters. I know this because they were written to me by the man the world knows as O. Henry, author, and only as the author. Not half a dozen people knew the real Sidney Porter, and the man was greater than the author.

There are other letters which are mine own, and no other eyes shall see them. But the letters in this book were not written to me as a woman, but rather to the little girl of his memory who lived next door to him in the Street of Yesterday.

The background for the letters is pure fiction. Maybe I have let more of myself creep into this tale than I had planned. If this be true, the reason is that my whole thought centred upon revealing Sidney Porter to the lovers of O. Henry.

Selma Lagerlöf's new Romance

The Emperor of Portugallia

By SELMA LAGERLÖF
Author of "Jerusalem," "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils," etc.

Translated by
VELMA SWANSTON HOWARD

Net, $1.50

SELMA LAGERLÖF, whose "Jerusalem" created such a deep impression last year and emphasized the fact that this woman-winner of the Nobel Prize is really a power in modern literature, has written a new novel of remarkable quality. "The Emperor of Portugallia" is the story of a father's love—a Swedish "Père Goriot"—and of the transcendent power of an alchemy which turned to fine gold that which before the whole world was dross.

Jan never ceased to talk about the day that his little daughter came into the world because upon that day a great change came into his life. When first the little bundle was put into his arms, the crabbed, toil-worn clod became a being of love and happiness, the constant companion of his little girl. And then, the irony of fate that sent the growing girl out into the world to earn money that Jan and Katrina might not lose their home! For it was all too easy for her, and after the first few letters containing the needed money nothing more was heard from "Glory Goldie Sunny Castle." How Jan took her absence, how he refused to believe ill of her, telling the neighbors that she was away reigning over her empire of Portugallia and that he, the emperor of Portugallia, would one day welcome her home, constitutes as poignant a story as Miss Lagerlöf has ever done.

By some Swedish critics this is considered Miss Lagerlöf's best novel. It is more of a "story" than the author's earlier masterpiece, "Jerusalem."

Medical Wonders of the Great War

Medical History of the Great War

By DR. WILLIAM L. MALLABAR

Net, $2.00

THIS book tells of some of the wonderful things that are being done along medical and surgical lines to lessen the human cost of war.

The field of war has been as it were a vast laboratory such as the world has never seen. Things undreamed-of in the medical world only a few years ago have become actualities, and changing conditions and new methods of warfare have revolutionized old ways.

Of all this Dr. Mallabar writes with the highest authority and from first-hand experience. Surgeon, and major in the British Medical Corps, Second Army, he holds in addition a commission from the French Government and one from the Belgian King. He tells how they treat victims of the deadly gas cloud attacks, of the new system of irrigating wounds which takes the place of bandages to prevent blood-poisoning; of astonishing model hospital trains to remove the wounded; of arms restored and legs made new and marvelous mechanical contrivances.

It is a book of wonders that holds the interest from first to last and compels the admiration and respect of all who read it.

Its scientific importance is attested by the following noted physicians who endorse the book or contribute special chapters: Sir Frederick Treves, President, British Red Cross Society; Sir William Osler; Dr. Blake, in charge American Hospital, Paris; Dr. C. B. Ker, probably the best authority on infectious diseases in the world; and many others.

Youth, the golden—A story for the Young in Heart

The Wishing Moon

By LOUISE DUTTON
Author of "The Goddess Girl."

Illustrated. Net, $1.35

JUDITH RANDALL is a heroine not to be resisted at all. From the first glimpse of her in the May-basket escapade one is content to follow delightedly in the footsteps of this imperious lady. Neil Donovan has his hands full in attempting to make the course of true love run straight; but one cannot be sad with Judith around for she is the spirit of youth, of joyousness and adventure.

"The Wishing Moon," is a story of life in an old New England town whose destiny and that of its inhabitants lies in the hand of its richest citizen. Miss Dutton has created and held in her pages the real spirit of youth. No vision is so splendid, no disappointment so black as that which comes to Judith and Neil caught up in the full tide of youth. The bars which seem interminably obstructing the course of true love grow at last unbearable and they steal away in a buggy at night, as youth must ever do to escape the fate that parents and social inequalities have hung about their necks. But it is when the truth comes home to them that their fate is literally hung about their necks and that they carry it with them, eloping or remaining, that the stuff this lad and lass are made of comes to the top.

One follows Miss Dutton with increasing interest. Her people are real, her scenes full of charm and the vividness of life. Any one who loves youth, its impetuosity and its whole-hearted willingness to place the universe in a leather dice cup and win or lose it in one toss for the heart's desire will like the romance of Judith Randall and Neil Donovan in "The Wishing Moon."

FROM "THE WISHING MOON"

By Louise Dutton

"It was very still. You could feel the pulse of the night here. There was a whisper and stir of life in the rustling trees, when the road crossed some belt of woods; there was a look of blind, creeping life about the clustering shadows in stretches of moonlight, and the low-hanging moon above the dark fields they passed was a living thing, too, the most alive of all. Judith stirred in her corner, and turned and looked at it.

"'It's sweet,' she said; 'and it's ours. It's still May. But we can't wish on the moon now; it's too late. And I don't want to wish, I'm so comfortable. Aren't you?'"

ALEC FARNUM BIRD HOUSES

The Bird House Man

By WALTER PRICHARD EATON

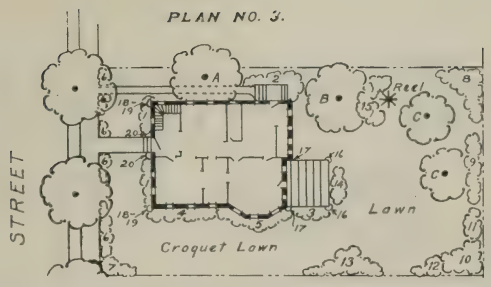
Author of "The Idyl of Twin Fires," etc.

Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty.

Net, ~~$1.50~~ 1.35

THIS is a book about Alec Farnum, the man who made bird houses and wrote about birds, and was an inveterate matchmaker besides, not only for his feathered friends but also for the young people whom he loved in the quiet little village of Southmead. Of course, there was Miss Millie Tilton—he couldn't make a match for her; but he could find her a nest of her own. And there was the Wild Duck, too, who went away to try her wings. But on the whole, he had better luck than most matchmakers, and he was certainly more beloved. Sometimes he had to interfere in matches which were already made, especially after a summer school of bare-foot dancers invaded Southmead and the wife of the Sunday School Superintendent was attacked with temperament. But the Bird House Man was equal to the emergency. It was no more than he deserved when his own happiness came to him at last.

Incidental to these stories is a leisurely picture of a New England community, seen, it may be, through a veil of romance, but yet true to a life which is only too rapidly changing, a village life without sophistication and without that hardness and poverty of sympathy which have so often characterized New England fiction, and given such a one-sided and unfair impression. In the stories, too, will be found a spirit which should appeal to those who love birds and gardens, and the out-of-doors. But, primarily, its appeal will be for those who, like St. Augustine in his youth, are "in love with love."



Book of Garden Plans

By STEPHEN F. HAMBLIN

Associate of Warren H. Manning, Landscape Architect

THE purpose of this book is to aid those who are planning gardens and country places to visualize problems similar to their own and to see how a landscape architect would solve them.

There are twenty plans of model gardens and places in the book with directions and planting lists for each. The plans are wide in their variety ranging from boulder walls, arbors, poppy beds, and special borders to the different kinds of formal and informal gardens, rock, water, woodland, Japanese, annual, and wild flower. Photographs illustrate the basic idea of each plan.

The author says of the book in his introduction:

"A rough plan, even if very incomplete, will often be far more helpful to explain arrangement and grouping than will pages of printed instruction. But so as to help make these plans more definite, an actual piece of property was in mind in each case.

"Supposing, then, that the main features on our imaginary piece of ground have been decided upon, he can refer to the blue prints and see how, by the arrangement of our garden material, we can best add to the natural beauties of the ground and give them the touch of human hands."

A final chapter gives information on the practical side of gardening—the trees, plants, shrubs, vines, etc., for various conditions, cost estimating, time for planting, and other details.

20 blue print plans. 32 pages of illustrations.

The Story of a Great Negro

Booker T. Washington

BUILDER OF A CIVILIZATION

By
LYMAN BEECHER STOWE
and EMMETT J. SCOTT

Illustrated. Net, $2.00

THIS book is not a biography in the ordinary sense. It is rather a dramatic but accurate presentation and interpretation of the various phases of the life of one who rose from a slave boy to be the recognized leader of ten millions of people and to take his place for all time among America's great men. His own autobiography, "Up From Slavery," closed at the threshold of his greatest achievements. This book gives fully the fruition of his life's work. After sketching briefly how the man made his school—Tuskegee—and the school the man, the authors give a chapter on how he won and held the leadership of his race, another on his original contributions to education, after which are taken up his position on the rights of the Negro and race prejudice. The serious matter is relieved by many of the inimitable stories for which Washington was noted. The final chapter, "Washington, the Man," is a trenchant and graphic picture of the man himself as known to those nearest him.

The material for this book was furnished by Emmett J. Scott, who for eighteen years as Secretary to Booker Washington and then to Tuskegee Institute was his most intimate and confidential associate. It is presented by Lyman Beecher Stowe, a trained and experienced writer. Much new and intimate light is thrown upon events of national importance by the publication for the first time of letters between Booker Washington and Theodore Roosevelt and other national characters.

Do You Know Jack Lait?

JACK LAIT flashed up a short time ago in the Chicago Herald with a story a day, and for a year and more he has kept it up—humorous, tragic, joyous, pathetic, uplifting, always of common folks and with a new tune in the words.

Beef, Iron and Wine

By JACK LAIT

Net, $1.25

In addition to the remarkable feat of writing a fresh, snappy, human story each day, Jack Lait is now writing a human Arabian Nights tale every month for the American Magazine.

This new writer of tales of the American people of this very day knows many worlds because he has lived in many. Started as a lad well on the way to becoming a wharf rat or a tramp, he turned out a "crack" ball player, became a college student, and went through the stages of book agent, police-reporter, political writer, baseball expert, dramatic critic, various kinds of editor, war correspondent, feature writer, Harry Lauder's original American press agent, promoter of theatrical stars, newspaper proprietor, playwright and novelist.

Through these wander years he has kept a lively, sympathetic heart — everywhere on common human terms with his fellows, knowing, and feeling, and experiencing, liking everybody, good and bad; and with this spirit his tales are drenched. Such understanding of the ways of humans comes to few in a generation. Added to this is one thing more, this "Wizard of Words," can make the daily common language of the street do his bidding with fresh magic. His way is his own.

The last word on Ivory in Art

Ivory and the Elephant

By GEORGE FREDERICK KUNZ, PH.D., SC.D., A. M.

Author of "The Curious Lore of Precious Stones," "The Magic of Jewels and Charms," etc.

Index. Profusely Illustrated

Net, $7.50

THIS is par excellence the Ivory Book. Dr. Kunz's works on "Precious Stones" and "Pearls" are sufficient guaranty of the accuracy, exhaustiveness, and beauty of his new book on "Ivories." The author gives a study of the art of carving ivories from the time of the Neanderthal man, with his first crude drawings of his own likeness on the tusks of a mammoth found in the caves of Dordogne, to the beautiful work done at the present time, and includes descriptions of elephant-hunting and the methods of search for the ivory of mammoths and mastodons.

Dr. Kunz has been for more than twenty-five years gem expert for Tiffany & Co. He was in charge of the departments of mines at the Paris, Kimberly and Chicago Expositions, and through his unusual opportunities for the study of works of art he has been able to collect a great deal of new and valuable information on the subject of carving in ivory. In addition, he has obtained photographs of famous pieces of ivory from the Louvre, Cluny, and other museums and private collections, more than one hundred of which are reproduced herein.

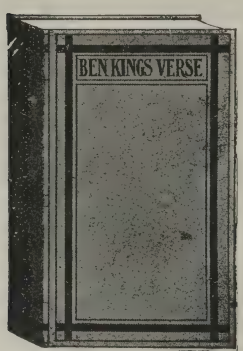
BEN KING'S VERSE

This book has had a larger sale than any book of humorous verse in recent years. Ben King's work is unique in American literature. His humor and pathos alike are different from that of any other author.



If I Should Die Tonight

If I should die tonight
And you should come to my cold corpse and say,
Weeping and heartsick o'er my lifeless clay—
If I should die tonight
And you should come in deepest grief and woe
And say, "Here's that ten dollars that I owe"—
I might arise in my large white cravat
And say, "What's that?"

If I should die tonight
And you should come to my cold corpse and kneel,
Clasping my bier to show the grief you feel—
I say, if I should die tonight
And you should come to me, and there and then
Just even hint 'bout payin' me that ten,
I might arise the while;
But I'd drop dead again.

BAYNE, CHARLES S.

My Book of Best Fairy Tales. Selected and edited by Charles S. Bayne. Includes Grimm, Andersen, Perrault, and the "Arabian Nights," and all the old English tales at all suitable for children, with all of the selections revised, and some of them re-written so that they may be easily understood. With 16 illustrations executed in color by Harry Rountree. Medium 8vo, Cloth. $1.50, Net.

"Even old people would be interested in the preface."—Philadelphia North American.

BEAN, CAPTAIN C. E. W.

The Anzac Book. The most unique volume inspired by the war. Its name was taken from the initials of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps, serving at Gallipoli. Practically every line of it was written in the trenches, under fire from Turkish rifle and field-gun; every picture and drawing was made under similar conditions, but with even greater difficulties. Contributions were solicited from the whole corps; responses came, in the form of descriptive sketches, sketches in color, verse, etc., revealing a variety of talent among officers and men; a staff of artists was collected to produce head- and tail-pieces; and the result, as its editor tells us, coming from "a dug-out overlooking Anzac Cove," became "the only book ever likely to be produced in Gallipoli." As reproduced now, with its numerous plates and other illustrations, it gives the humor and pathos of the most deplorable phase of a terribly tragic contest. Quarto, Cloth. $1.75, Net.

BOSANQUET, WILLIAM CECIL, M.A., M.D., Oxon., F.R.C.P., London, and JOHN W. EYRE, M.D., M.S., Durh., F.R.S., Edin.

Serums, Vaccines, and Toxins in Treatment and Diagnosis. The advances made in Practical Bacteriology since the second edition of this manual was published, three years ago, have necessitated a thorough revision, with enlargement, for the third edition. The Bacteriological lessons taught by the War receive due attention and the volume has been brought thoroughly up to date. 12mo, Cloth. $2.75, Net.

BROWNING, OSCAR, M.A.

A History of the Modern World. A new, popular-priced, one-volume edition of this very attractive and informing work heretofore issued in two volumes. Its exhaustive Index, occupying nearly fifty pages, is a fair indication of its magnitude and completeness. From it we learn what giant intellects shaped the nations of the world, as we know them to-day. Large 8vo, Cloth, 1,008 pp. $3.00, Net.

"An exceedingly valuable addition to the library of any reader who seeks a comprehensive survey of the events of the past 100 years, and a convenient source of reference."—Springfield Republican.

"His narrative is always easy and interesting to follow, and his judgments are fair and statesmanlike."—The New York Evening Post.

CESCINSKY, HERBERT.

English Furniture of the Eighteenth Century. Illustrated from drawings by the author, and with hundreds of illustrations from photographs. Mr. Cescinsky is acknowledged to be one of the most eminent living authorities on furniture and especially English Furniture. He has studied this subject from every point of view, bringing to bear upon it not only an intimate technical knowledge of the work and methods of the cabinet maker, the carver, the upholsterer and other craftsmen engaged in furniture construction, but also the fuller and rarer knowledge that pertains exclusively to the expert collector. The illustrations are superior in merit to anything of the kind ever done before. They number more than 1,000, reproduced from original drawings and from artistic photographs, representing examples in the possession of distinguished private collectors, the chief national museums, eminent firms, and the author's own unique collections. In three volumes. Quarto, Half-Morocco. $50.00, Net, the Set.

COBERN, CAMDEN M., D.D., Litt.D.

The New Archeological Discoveries, and their bearing upon the New Testament and upon the Life and Times of the Primitive Church. What has been done for the Old Testament by such men as Hogarth, Ball, Sayce, and Nicol, is here done for the New Testament by an expert archeologist and excavator. His book gathers information from modern investigation and discovery in Bible lands and elsewhere and focuses the light from it upon the New Testament. It shows how papyri from Egypt illumined New Testament Greek; what newly discovered manuscripts have done to assure the text and how; discusses recently found primitive Christian documents and collects pertinent indications from the catacombs, from graves and buried cities, and from inscriptions of all sorts. The book is illustrated and popular in form, but loses nothing of its scientific value by its simplicity of presentation. Illustrated 8vo. $2.50, Net.

CHAUNDLER, CHRISTINE, and ERIC WOOD

My Book of Beautiful Legends. As retold here by two charming writers, these forty-eight legends include such old favorites as "The Golden Fleece," "Pandora's Box," "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," "The Twilight of the Gods," "The Story of Sir Galahad," "The Voyage of Ulysses," etc., etc., and as here published they make a sumptuous juvenile uniform with "My Book of Best Fairy Tales," published by us recently. Legends come almost at the beginning of Life. They are as welcome as fairy tales. They form a part of our being. We absorb them, to our delight and continual satisfaction. And we are wise if later we provide them for the generation that broods in our home and grows to manhood and womanhood for our blessing and the common good. With twelve beautiful illustrations in color by A. Michael. Large crown 8vo, Cloth. $1.50, Net.

FISCHER, LOUIS, M.D.

"Mr. Fraser had seen the Russian several times before his recent visit to Russia which this volume describes and illustrates. He was therefore prepared to picture the Russian comparatively, and his comparisons are striking."—The Evening Sun, New York.

FUEHR, ALEXANDER, LL.D.

The Neutrality of Belgium. Based on the contention that Belgium was not neutral territory when the Great War began; that International Law does not regard any treaties binding when conditions have essentially changed; and that French troops entered Belgium before the Germans did. Considers Belgium's Earlier History and all that has followed since. Quotes freely from Treaties, Conversations, press articles and Affidavits. 12mo, Cloth. $1.50, Net.

"Germany's case, such as it is, is ably and temperately stated by Dr. Fuehr."—New York Times.

"This book is of intense timely interest and perhaps of unusual historic importance."—St. Louis Star.

GILBERT, ELEANOR

The Ambitious Woman in Business. Wide personal knowledge of her subject inspired Miss Gilbert to write this book. Whether it be of women employed in department stores, in business offices, in editorial rooms, or as heads of enterprises of their own, she writes of things she has seen and studied carefully. What is better, she writes with broad and clear understanding of what the opportunities are, how they may best be improved, and what is needed in women for success in them. Not only does she write from the woman's point of view, but from the employer's also; that is, as to the newer attitude of employers toward their employees in improving conditions under which they work, providing for their bodily welfare, giving shorter hours, etc. Stress is laid on stenography as the step from which women most often rise to higher things, as heads of departments or other executives. She writes also with fine understanding of marriage as it presents itself to women in their relation to employment already secured in a profitable calling. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50, Net.

HALL, S. ROLAND

Short Talks on Retail Selling. Practical suggestions to sales people from a man of large experience in vocational training. 12mo, Cloth. 75 Cents, Net.

HOLLOPETER, WILLIAM CAROTHERS, M.D.

Hay Fever, Its Prevention and Treatment. For all who are annually sneezers this book can not fail to have special interest. It comes from the pen of an expert, and should command the confidence of all who suffer from the summer's widespread scourge. Dr. Hollopeter was formerly professor of pediatrics in the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1877; for eighteen months was an interne in the Presbyterian Hospital of New York; and was associated for three years with Dr. George Strawbridge, making a special study of diseases of the throat, eye, and ear, and giving particular attention to Hay Fever. His book has been written for laymen as well as physicians, and every Hay Fever victim should know what is the history, what are the causes, and what the proper treatment of a disease which has been so baffling, so afflictive, and so inadequately understood, as told by one who in handling it has had great success. 12mo. $1.25, Net.

JONES, BERNARD E.

How to Make and Operate Moving Pictures. Clearly describes the general principles underlying moving picture production; records their history and explains their manufacture and projection; and furnishes a wealth of hints for the amateur and the professional, with details about the preparation of films, what to do in emergencies, etc. With 8 half-tone plates and numerous line drawings. 12mo, Cloth. $1.00, Net.

KLEISER, GRENVILLE

Talks on Talking. A glance at the table of contents of Mr. Kleiser's new book will show how distinct is the appeal he makes to his readers. There are in all nineteen chapter-titles. In these he deals with the art itself and the various types of talkers, the phrases they use, the value of an attractive voice, the avoidance of mannerisms, speaking in public, and general conversation. The book is intended, not only for the general public interested in these matters, but for professional speakers, preachers, and others. Mr. Kleiser believes that the increasingly large number of persons who are obliged to talk as a consequence of social, business, or public activities, will give his volume a place of its own among current publications. 12mo, Cloth. 75 Cents, Net.

LAUCK, W. JETT, and EDGAR SYDENSTRICKER

The Conditions of Labor in American Industries. This important work, on a subject of wide interest in all parts of this country at the present time, is an authoritative study of the results of recent Federal and State investigations as to the conditions of wage-earners in the principal industries of the United States. Mr. Lauck was formerly associate professor of economics in the Washington and Lee University, and co-author with Jeremiah W. Jenks of "The Immigration Problem." Mr. Sydenstricker has done work along similar lines as expert investigator for the Federal Immigration Commission and the Commission on Industrial Relations. The two authors write of the wages and other earnings of workers in our principal industries, conditions as to working hours, sanitary matters, irregularity of employment, and adequacy of wages as indicated by recent standards. 12mo. $1.75, Net.

MENTAL EFFICIENCY SERIES

Ten Cloth-bound Volumes made up in the most careful manner from the writings of Aristotle, Socrates, Darwin, Spencer, William James, Muensterberg, Jastrow, Schofield, and other accepted authorities on mental science practically applied. But tho in a broad way these men are the authors of these books, those who have done the actual work of collecting the material and putting it into this unusual form are a group of scientists and practical men prominent in this sort of work, not only in this country but abroad, where the study of mental efficiency has really reached a much higher plane. The great service they have performed has been to point out the practical day-by-day application of all this knowledge to the humble affairs of the average man, and the showing to the average man that he may raise himself to any heights he desires. OGILVY, JAMES S.

Relics and Memorials of London City and London Town. With original illustrations by their author—each volume containing over fifty full-page colored drawings finely reproduced. These two beautiful books provide a permanent and a worthy record in color of the many buildings of great historic interest and of places that are fast disappearing or have already disappeared even since the pictures were painted—little spots around which the history of London has grown; that older London dignified by time and by association with the bygone generations. TARBELL, IDA M.

Making Men at Ford's. Miss Tarbell's studies of American industrialism have led to nothing of more striking personal interest than this volume on the great experiment made by Henry Ford in his automobile factory at Detroit. Readers of Miss Tarbell's former works dealing with economics will be prepared for a volume constructed from original sources and with unusual care and devotion. This work is, in fact, an outcome of studies made by her on the spot at Detroit, extending over a considerable period. It deals with the whole subject in the concrete, and records, not only her own impressions, but facts about conditions at the Ford factory derived by her at first-hand. One of the chapters is devoted to Mr. Ford himself, another to the origin and general features of his plan. Miss Tarbell then considers some of the immediate results of the putting of that plan into operation, taking up later psychological developments, the drink question, the influence of the plan on the home and domestic felicity, and on savings, with an outline of what seems to her to be the future condition of the men employed there. The author believes that "Christ came the first time into men's vision by coming on the plane of their senses; He comes the second time into men's vision by lifting them up to his plane of spiritual comprehension. It means a new step in the evolution of man." 16mo, Cloth, frontispiece, 106 pp. 50 cents.

The Psychic Riddle. A record of psychic investigation since the publication of "The Widow's Mite and Other Psychic Phenomena," giving new typical cases of the several classes of phenomena. 12mo, Cloth, 243 pp., indexed. $1.00.

Without bias one way or the other, Dr. Funk neither condemns the spiritualistic explanation, nor accepts as conclusive the apparent evidence of a future life disclosed by his painstaking investigations. His point of view is that of an honest, intelligent reporter of things that he has seen and heard, or that have been fully substantiated, by testimony derived from unimpeachable sources. . . . The whole book is, in fact, a suggestive and highly important addition to the rapidly increasing number of treatises on this subject.—Boston Transcript.

The Widow's Mite. And Other Psychic Phenomena. This book brings psychic investigations and the best thought concerning them down to date. It presents hundreds of experiences along psychic lines, and reasons most carefully concerning them. It gives fairly all sides. The author says: "I say neither 'No' nor 'Yes' to telepathy, the subjective-mind theory, spiritualism, etc., for I don't know. I simply give the facts I and others have seen, and ask 'What is it?'" The answers of nearly forty of the world's best-known psychologists are here given with these marvelous experiences of a quarter of a century's careful investigations of psychic phenomena. Large 8vo, Cloth, 538 pages. $2.00.

In this book is a quarter of a century of research in spiritualism, telepathy, and forces.—The World, New York.

A most remarkable, most important, most thoughtful, and most interesting work.—The Times, Boston.

GRASSET, JOSEPH, M.D. (Professor of Clinical Medicine, University of Montpellier, France.)

Marvels Beyond Science. (L'Occultisme Hier et Aujourd'hui.) A record of progress in the reduction of occult phenomena to a scientific basis. With a preface by Emile Faguet of the French Academy. Authorized English translation by René Jacques Tubeuf, Fellow of the University of Paris. Emile Faguet, of the French Academy, says of the present work, which deals with the success of scientific investigation in reducing occult-phenomena to a scientific basis, that Dr. Grasset has succeeded thus far in his efforts to do what sailors do when they "calculate the reckoning of the ship." He has aimed scrupulously to mark the boundary between things already known and those which still remain beyond our understanding. He believes that phenomena still regarded occult will, in a comparatively short space of time, be included in the catalog of accepted scientific principles. Among these are mental suggestion, direct intercourse of thought, articles removed without touch, sight through opaque substances, telepathy, premonitions, materializations, etc. 8vo. $1.75.

This is the only literature on this particular classification. 8vo, Cloth, 415 pp. $2.50.

JENKS, PROF. J. W., Ph.D.

The Immigration Problem. By Prof. J. W. Jenks, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of Government and Director of the Division of Public Affairs, N. Y. University, and W. Jett Lauck, Ph.D., former Associate Professor of Economics and Politics, Washington and Lee University. Dr. Jenks was an active member of and Professor Lauck was officially connected with the United States Immigration Commission, appointed in 1907, which gave four years of searching work to the problem "How does immigration affect American civilization now, and what is its influence likely to be in the future?" This book was based upon the report of that Commission, as finally presented in forty-two volumes. This Third Edition conforms to the changes made in that report, and also covers results of the United States Census of 1910, not available when the first edition was printed. A colored diagram and other new matter add positive interest and value. Third Edition, Revised, Enlarged, and perfected in accordance with the latest official figures and facts. Cloth, 8vo. $1.75.

This is a most excellent discussion of the Immigration Problem, full of fresh, vital information. Both authors were earnest, conscientious workers on the Immigration Commission. The volume ought to have a wide circulation.—Hon. John L. Burnett, U. S. Representative from Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

An admirable summary of the facts brought forth by the researches of the Immigration Commission and the conclusions and suggestions of the authors are at once comprehensive, cautious, sound. The book is one that every student of the issues of public policy in America must become familiar with. —Prof. F. H. Giddings. Department of Social Science, Columbia University.

We have here the most solid basis of reasoning on this great subject that we have ever had. The authors seem to have tried, and successfully, to furnish materials to persons of all views and parties for an independent judgment. I am using the book in my class in the study of Urban Communities with great satisfaction.—Prof. Charles R. Henderson, Ph.D., D.D., Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Chicago.

How to Read and Declaim. Mr. Kleiser aims, in this work, to present a course of instruction in reading and declamation, with his prime object the cultivation of taste and refinement. He maintains that the foundation of all good speaking lies in naturalness and simplicity. Few technical terms are employed in Mr. Kleiser's teaching—the fewest possible. Instead of using an arbitrary system, he resorts to what may be called the suggestive method, believing that distinctly better results can be achieved. The book presents two courses of study—first, preparatory; second, advanced. Then are given selections for use in practice. These have been chosen from standard authors and comprise both poetry and prose. 12mo, Cloth. $1.25.

How to Argue and Win. The author gives different suggestions for training the mind to accuracy of thought and in the power of clear and effective statements. His method is thoroughly practical, being, in fact, the result of his experience in teaching men how to "think on their feet." 12mo, Cloth. $1.25.

Great Speeches and How to Make Them. Mr. Kleiser, in this work, aims to set forth, not only the sources of the power exercised by famous masters of oratory, but to point out methods by which young men may acquire and develop the art. His long experience as a teacher, and his own gifts as a speaker, not to mention his exhaustive studies of the lives and speeches of great authors, have fitted him for the preparation of a work that should make strong appeal. And there is a chapter on types of orators and oratory. The reader is supplied with many specimen speeches which are recommended for study. First comes a group of after-dinner speeches, then others such as communicative, didactic, eulogistic, inaugural, political and miscellaneous speeches. 12mo, Cloth. $1.25.

LODGE, HENRY CABOT, LL.D. (and others)

The Best of the World's Classics (Restricted to Prose). Henry Cabot Lodge, Editor-in-Chief; Francis W. Halsey, Associate Editor. As Senator Lodge sets forth in his Introduction, this work represents "an attempt to give, from all periods and languages of Western civilization, examples of what is best and most memorable in their prose literature." In this endeavor, personal preferences have been suppressed and general principles followed on broad and enduring lines. The term "classics" has been used, not in a narrow or technical sense, but rather in the sense of Thoreau, who defined them as "the noblest recorded thoughts of mankind." Examples, therefore, have been taken from great writings which have moved and influenced thought; from writers historically important, and from works representative of the various literatures of the world, including specimens from the masters of English prose. Senator Lodge's Introduction is an essay, notable in itself, comprizing, as it does, twenty-five pages of the work. 10 volumes, illustrated with frontispieces. Bound in Cloth, Half Leather, and Full Leather. Sold only by subscription.

Library Edition (Edition de Luxe). Ten volumes, bound in three-quarters Green Morocco, gilt tops, gold lettering, extra wide margins, large type, over 100 choice illustrations, text paper extra heavy. 8vo, in a box. $25.00.

MODERN SERMONS BY WORLD SCHOLARS

Ten volumes of over seventy sermons, Edited by Robert Scott and W. C. Stiles, with introduction by Newell Dwight Hillis, D.D., each being given entire, and each being selected (oftentimes by the preacher himself) as most representative of the authors' style and force. A wonderfully rich and copious work for Sunday-school teachers, stimulating thought, suggesting practical lessons, and supplying information.—The Christian Inquirer.

FEATURES OF THE WORK AND ARRANGEMENT OF THE VOLUMES.

In the ordinary sense of the term the "People's Bible" is not a Biblical Commentary. The scope is broader. It is a work not only for the minister and student, but for the people. It is not intended to take the place of verbal or critical commentaries. It is not a series of sermons. There are no sermons, as such, in the entire work. The volumes are arranged as follows: 1. Genesis; 2. Exodus; 3. Leviticus–Numbers, xxv.; 4. Numbers, xxvi.–Deuteronomy; 5. Joshua–Judges, v.; 6. Judges, vi.–I. Samuel, xvii.; 7. I. Samuel, xviii.–I. Kings, xiii.; 8. I. Kings, xv.–I. Chronicles, ix.; 9. I. Chronicles, x.–II. Chronicles, xx.; xxi.; 10. II. Chronicles, xxi.–Esther; 11. Job. 12. The Psalms; 13. Proverbs; 14. Ecclesiastes–Isaiah, xxvi.; 15. Isaiah, xvii.–Jeremiah, xix.; 16. Jeremiah, xx.–Daniel; 17. Hosea–Malachi; 18. 19, 20. Matthew; 21. Mark–Luke; 22. John; 23, 24, 25. The Acts; 26. Romans–Corinthians–Galatians; 27. Ephesians–Revelation; 28. Index volume to the entire work.

*†The Pulpit Bible. The entire text of the Bible is printed in large, clear type, with bright and suggestive illustrations in an ample margin opposite each significant verse. The author's notes alone run to over 750,000 words. The notes are all original and they indicate the special pulpit use of each verse (where available) in the Bible. Each note is thus a suggestion for a sermon. Where space has not permitted a sufficient treatment of any passage, a copious and most carefully detailed index indicates in which of Dr. Parker's other books the particular interpretation is provided. 4to, Full Morocco, 1,351 pp., one vol. $15.00.

A page of Parker is worth a whole volume of some sermons that we have seen in print.—The New York Observer.

*†Studies in Texts. Six volumes containing new sermons, outlines, suggestions, etc., designed to be of value to preachers, Bible students, teachers, and other active religious workers, and useful for home and family readings. 6 vols., 12mo, Cloth. $1.50 per vol.

They are marked by all the doctor's originality, his fine spiritual insight, majesty of expression, wealth of illustration, and forcefulness of application. Preachers of the gospel cannot do better than add this book to their libraries.—Primitive Methodist.

PREACHER'S COMPLETE HOMILETIC COMMENTARY ON THE OLD AND THE NEW TESTAMENT, THE

With Critical and Exegetical Notes. This commentary, consisting of thirty-two royal octavo volumes (Old Testament 21 volumes, New Testament 11 volumes), and having over eighteen thousand pages, contains an exposition, wholly in English, on every paragraph or verse of the entire Bible that can be used to advantage in the preparation of sermons. With copious indexes to each volume and an index volume to the entire series. Among the contributors are: Rev. J. S. Exell, M.A.; Rev. W. Burrows, B.A.; Thomas Robinson, D.D.; Rev. J. W. Harris; Rev. D. G. Watt, M.A.; Rev. Geo. Barlow; Rev. Robert Tuck; Thomas Whitelaw, D.D.; Rev. Henry J. Foster, etc.

*Preacher's Complete Homiletic Commentary on the Old Testament. By twenty distinguished homilists. 8vo, Cloth, over 12,000 pp., 20 vols. (and index volume), complete, $60.00; per vol., $3.00.

*Preacher's Complete Homiletic Commentary on the New Testament. Uniform size and style with the Homiletic Commentary on the Old Testament. Cloth, 10 vols. (and index volume), 6,000 pp., $30.00; per vol., $3.00.

FEATURES OF THE CONTENTS.

IT BRINGS TO THE PREACHER'S ATTENTION hundreds of texts heretofore almost wholly passed over by the pulpit. Spurgeon, in his Commenting and Commentaries, says: "We have next to nothing on Kings." In the Homiletic Commentary we have on Kings alone 743 treatments of texts. The same is true of other books, as Jeremiah. New expositions, critical notes, illustrations, etc., are poured in upon neglected texts, and additional light thrown upon old texts.

IT IS THE ONLY COMMENTARY that supplies a sermonic treatment of homiletic suggestion on every verse of both the Old and New Testaments that can be used to advantage as a sermon text.

IT CONCENTRATES THE LIGHT of all ages and of all countries on the text.

IT IS WHOLLY FREE FROM DENOMINATIONAL BIAS, being strictly evangelical.

IT SUGGESTS THOUSANDS OF THEMES AND ILLUSTRATIONS for sermons, also many hundreds of useful illustrations.

IT THROWS NEW LIGHT upon the present controversies over the Old Testament.

THE COMMENTARY IS WHOLLY IN ENGLISH, avoiding Hebrew and Greek, except here and there in the critical notes.

THE INDEXES are useful and practical.

help to the preacher, student, or other Christian worker. In 12 volumes. 12mo, Cloth. $1.50 per volume; $18.00 per set.

FEATURES OF THE CONTENTS.

The plan of the work, in general, gives under each text, each being in its consecutive order from Genesis to Revelation: (1) Outline of important sermons by eminent preachers which exist only in manuscript or periodicals, and are thus inaccessible; or, (2) less full outlines of sermons which have appeared in volumes that are not well known or easily obtained; or, (3) reference to or very brief outlines of sermons which appear in popular volumes such as are likely to be in a preacher's library; and (4) full references to theological treatises, commentaries, etc., where any help is given to the elucidation of the text. Thus the preacher, having chosen his text, has only to refer to the Sermon Bible to find some of the best outlines and suggestions on it and very helpful references to all the aids available. STANDARD DICTIONARY, THE FUNK & WAGNALLS NEW

A new Creation from A to Z. Four years of time and more than $1,450,000 of money were spent in its production. Over 380 Editors and Specialists were engaged upon it. It has about 3,000 pages; gives over 450,000 living vocabulary terms; has dozens of important features not found in any other dictionary; and is as far ahead of the old "Standard" as that was ahead of every other dictionary twenty years ago.

There is no doubt about its being the greatest dictionary of the English language that has ever been published. I prize it very highly, and so far as I am concerned it will be given a place in the Oklahoma schools.—M. H. Duncan, Member State Board of Education, Oklahoma.

You have given us a biographical dictionary, a geographical gazetteer, and an encyclopedia under the guise of an English dictionary. Your dictionary will for me supersede several dictionaries that I have been obliged to use together in order to gain the information furnished in this one volume.—W. H. P. Faunce, D.D., LL.D., President Brown University, Providence, R. I.

A compact and practical compendium.—Independent, New York.

This thoroughly up-to-date and remarkably compact dictionary is admirably adapted for general use where an unabridged dictionary is too unwieldy for practicability.—The Press, Philadelphia.

Very convenient. The inclusion of proper names and abbreviations in one alphabetical order with the other words is a convenience in a dictionary of this size.—The Sun, New York.

As in the New Unabridged Standard, the words in this work are arranged in one alphabetical order. Proper names, abbreviations, prefixes, suffixes, etc., will all be found in their proper alphabetical sequence in the vocabulary. The Comprehensive Standard is a model book for ordinary desk purposes and for the pupil's book-bag.—The World, New York.

*STANDARD DICTIONARY, THE CONCISE

Abridged from the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary. This compact volume aims to provide an ideal concise dictionary for school or handy desk use. It gives the orthography, pronunciation, and meaning of about 35,000 words, with 800 pictorial illustrations. James C. Fernald, L.H.D., editor. 12mo, 589 pp. Cloth, 60 cents; Limp morocco, $1.25. DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

All the essential features of the New Standard Dictionary have been included in this work except the etymologies, which are necessarily omitted. The appendix includes: faulty diction; rules for spelling; proper names; glossary of foreign words, phrases, etc., current in English literature; symbolic flowers and gems; abbreviations and contractions, etc.

The man who compressed the big Standard into this small volume had a job on his hands of which he acquitted himself with a good deal of credit. Placed within reach of the writer's hand, where it belongs, and where it will always be found, it saves some trotting to the larger field and often serves as good a purpose.—Herald, Rochester, N. Y.

For those who possess the unabridged Standard Dictionary and for those who do not, this compact volume will prove a treasure. It is not always convenient to consult the larger book, and with the concise dictionary at hand it is often unnecessary. It follows the general plan of the more imposing work, and will render valuable service.—The Christian World, Cleveland, O.

A book that should appeal to all persons who need a handy dictionary—one just large enough to drop conveniently into the pocket.—The Baltimore American.

The little book will prove a convenience to many. —The Sun, N. Y.

STANDARD FAMILY PHYSICIAN, THE

This work is a translation and American edition of Reissig's "Das Aerztliche Hausbuch," a work by thirty or forty leading German medical specialists. It has been edited and Americanized by equally eminent authorities in this country. While the text of the work is couched in clear, plain language, making it easily understood by the layman, the work is absolutely authoritative and is officially indorsed by the Congress of Physicians. It is the first medical book that has been compiled in a popular manner by recognized professors and physicians. It treats of the construction of the body; the origin, the diagnosis, and treatment of diseases; the relation of physician and patient, etc. In the second part it gives in about one thousand pages alphabetically arranged all that is worth knowing about the origin, the course of treatment, and prevention of diseases; about nursing, nutrition; the several kinds of treatment (water, light, air, massage); first help in case of accident; the relation between vocation of the patient and the disease, and many other things. Nearly 500 illustrations, including 24 colored plates scientifically executed. Two volumes, Buckram. $15.00 per set. Three-quarter Morocco, $20.00.

I have examined with care the Standard Family Physician, and I am glad to recognize in it a work which the medical profession can safely endorse. I hope it will meet with a large sale, and thus help to dissipate the deplorable ignorance of the masses regarding hygiene and health which is daily brought to the attention of this department. No home should be considered complete without it.—Thomas Darlington, M.D., Pres. Board of Health, New York City.

ZWEMER, SAMUEL M., D.D., F.R.G.S.

Raymund Lull. The life story of the first Christian missionary who carried the gospel to the Moslems. The record of Raymund Lull's life reads like a romance. From the dissolute life of a gay knight in the Court of King James II. of Aragon, he became a monk. So numerous were his literary productions on philosophy, sociology, logic, and theology that their number is unknown. His daring trips to Africa, his unflinching courage, his great strength of faith, his intense suffering, and his tragic death after fifty years of saintly devotion to his mission of converting the Saracens to Christianity, all form some of the most glowing pages in the lives of the world's illustrious Christian heroes. 12mo, Cloth, ornamental covers, 172 pp., 12 full-page half-tone illustrations, introduction by Robert E. Speer, complete bibliography, etc. 75 cents.

Know What the World Is Doing!

Two hours spent weekly in reading The Literary Digest will afford you definite, reliable information on every important happening all over the world. The Digest is CLEAN. Sensational, useless, "slushy" news is omitted, but every event of importance is covered.

All sides of the world's news without our views is the unique policy of The Literary Digest. The editors do not write their views, but they quote from and reflect the opinions of the leading publications of the world on both sides of every question.

The World's Greatest Magazine of Clean, Valuable, Reliable News

The Literary Digest

PUBLISHED WEEKLY—CIRCULATION 525,000 COPIES

MEN and women who read The Literary Digest take an intelligent and authoritative part in any conversation, anywhere. It gives you all sides and shades of opinion concerning every happening of moment in the realms of Science, Politics, Sport, Art, Literature, Religion, Education, Industry, etc. Profusely illustrated.

Good reading begets good thinking. You get just such reading on every essential topic of the day in The Literary Digest.

It's INTERESTING and at the same time it's VALUABLE reading matter.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State: "It is unique among the weeklies, combining in one magazine scores of others, and thus has become indispensable to the busy man who would know what is taking place in the world around him."

Senator Benjamin R. Tillman: "It is invaluable to the busy man."

Hudson Maxim, Inventor Smokeless Powder, etc.: "The most indispensable periodical published to-day."

Thos. A. Edison, Orange, N. J.: "I believe that at the present time The Literary Digest prints the most valuable and interesting matter of any publication of similar character that I know of."

Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes, United States Supreme Court: "It supplies a want felt alike by professional and lay readers."

Brand Whitlock, Mayor of Toledo, Ohio: "I have taken The Literary Digest for a great many years, and I should not like to be without it. I think it is invaluable to one who wishes to know what is going on in the world, and it gives, I think, with quite as much of the impersonal feeling as is possible to human beings, both sides of every question."

Francis E. Clark, President Christian Endeavor Union: "It winnows the multiplicity of newspapers and tells us the most important things which they contain."

SOUL-STIRRING SERMONS

The success of Camp-Meeting Sermons coupled with the demand for more reading of a similar nature, emphasized the necessity for a book of select sermons on vital subjects having a wide general application.

In selecting these sermons, the object has been, not merely to print sermons delivered by ministers who are well known, but rather to select sermons that are replete with inspiring Scripture truths. The variety of subjects presented is sure to furnish that which is of vital interest to every reader.

The oral message has always played an important part in building up and advancing the church, also in reaching the unconverted. But since many do not have the privilege of hearing the different ministers represented in Soul-Stirring Sermons, it is a great opportunity to have their printed messages within the reach of the multitudes. In the preparation of the sermons, care has been exercised to preserve the original style of the speaker.

MODERN SPIRITUALISM EXPOSED

Between spirituality and spiritualism a wide gulf is forever fixed.

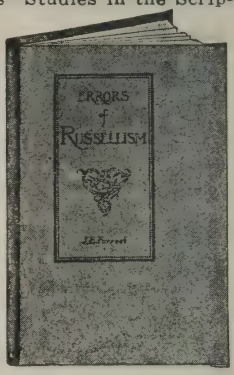
ERRORS OF RUSSELLISM

By J. E. Forrest

Are you acquainted with the teachings of the Millennial Dawn? Do you know that Pastor Russell in his "Studies in the Scriptures" has assailed almost every fundamental doctrine of the Bible? He denies the personality and deity of the Holy Spirit, the divinity and actual resurrection of Jesus Christ; ridicules the doctrine of eternal punishment: teaches the annihilation of the devil, his angels, and the incorrigible wicked.



He has labored hard to establish an earthly millennial kingdom, during which "the little flock" are to conduct an evangelistic campaign among the heathen with marvelous results.

Would you know the truth about these all-important Bible themes?

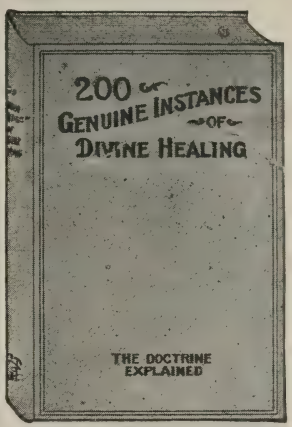
200 GENUINE INSTANCES OF DIVINE HEALING

The Doctrine Explained

Compiled and arranged by A. L. Byers

Good Cheer and Encouragement for the Afflicted



Part I of this book of 511 pages consists of two hundred remarkable instances of healing by divine power. Only those testimonies were accepted that could be verified by living witnesses. Instances are given of the healing of rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, nervous prostration, heart-trouble, complication of diseases, broken bones, painful accidents, and other numerous ills to which humanity is subject. Those who had spent everything for medicines and physicians were made whole by trusting their cases to the Great Physician. Persons pronounced incurable by doctors and given up to die by friends are now well and strong. Cancerous growth has been stayed in its course and its effects destroyed.

Part II explaining the doctrine of divine healing, treats the subject in a way that will enable the readers to grasp faith for healing. Helpful advice to those seeking healing is given.

Chapter XX, "Counterfeits of Divine Healing," and Chapter XXI, "Forty Objections and Questions Answered," are particularly interesting as they frustrate the false claims of so-called healers and those who oppose the work of the Divine Physician.

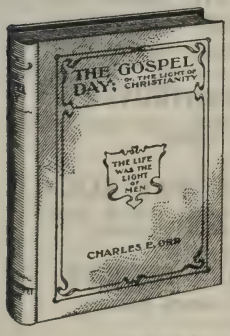
THE GOSPEL DAY; or, The Light of Christianity

By C. E. Orr

A very helpful, enlightening book covering a wide range of subjects related to a sincere Christian life.



The contrast between the world and the Christian is plainly set forth, and the course the latter should pursue as given by the Word of God is presented.

The chapter on Spiritual Culture tells the difference between faith and presumption, the value of fasting, meditation, and self-examination, and the kind of prayer that brings down a blessing.

The author portrays the church in early times when great power and grace was upon her, in later years obscured by popery and denominationalism, and in the present days when she shines forth clearly once more.

Some of the Subjects Treated

The Holy Scriptures—The Way from Sin to Perfect Salvation—The Church of God—The Ordinances of the New Testament—The Course of the World—The Domestic Relation—Evil Habits and Injurious Indulgences—The Trinity—Scriptural Predictions of an Apostasy—False Teaching of the Apostasy—The Time of the Evening.

510 pages. Cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

THE SABBATH AND THE LORD'S DAY

By H. M. Riggle

The origin of the Old Testament Sabbath (seventh day) observance is clearly shown. The different chapters tell when the Sabbath was first enjoined upon man; that it was of a ceremonial nature—a type of spiritual rest in Christ—and was abolished by his coming. It also shows that the Jewish Sabbath was not commanded to be observed in the Christian dispensation.

The book is designed to convince seventh-day observers of the fallacy of their position. "The Sabbath and the Lord's Day" contains teaching on a subject greatly misunderstood. Everybody should get a copy and read it.

Tombs of the Kings, Golgotha and the Garden, The Grave of Jesus, The Royal Quarries, Grotto of Jeremiah, Valley of Jehoshaphat, Mount of Olives, Church of the Tomb of the Virgin, The Place of the Temple, The Sacred Rock, Mosque of Omar, Different Jewish Temples, Middle Wall of Partition, Later Buildings, Aksa Mosque, Golden Gate, Throne of Solomon, Fortress of Antonia, Church of St. Anne, Pool of Bethesda, Via Dolorosa, Roman Prison, Models of the Temple, The Russian Cathedral, etc. Other places of interest outside the city walls are also described. THE PILOT'S VOICE

By Isabel C. Byrum

A book for young people. It represents life as a great ocean. The hero of the story is a boy entering his teens. Many times a faithful Christian mother has given him wise counsel and advice; but at an early age he begins to associate with companions whose influence leads him downward, slowly at first, then at a more rapid pace. His conscience often warns him of the error of his pursuits and of the dangers into which they will lead him; but instead of paying heed, he goes on in his downward course, soon to awaken with horror to the fact that he has been captured by the officers of the law and may be sent to prison.

This marks the turningpoint in his life. He rights his wrongs and starts out in life anew; but this time, instead of seeking companions who are sinful, he yields his heart and life to God and does much to prove his love for a mother whose heart he has broken.

The Pilot's Voice sounds out a warning to young men who are tempted or inclined to travel the downward road. No young man can read it without being strongly influenced to dedicate his life to truth and right.

Beautifully illustrated cover.

224 pages. Cloth, 50 cents.

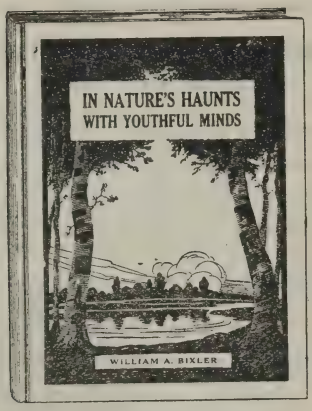
IN NATURE'S HAUNTS WITH YOUTHFUL MINDS

By Wm. A. Bixler



IT IS INSTRUCTIVE

No child or young person can read this book without learning something about the very things that have been puzzling him. This is wherein the utility of the book lies—while it interests it also instructs. The different stories are short, only a few pages being devoted to each. Thus you do not have to read far to get considerable information.

Books such as this one are of great assistance to parents who desire to entertain their children at home instead of letting them go elsewhere for amusement.

190 pages. Cloth, 50 cents.

HAPPY HOURS AT HOME

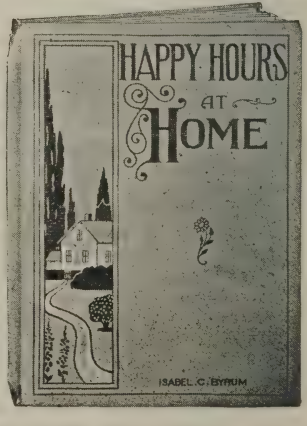
By Isabel C. Byrum

An intensely interesting book for the evening hour when the little folks are preparing for slumberland.

Mothers and fathers will be glad to have a new book at hand when their children, hungry for a good story, come crowding round their knees. The desire of children is to be entertained, and parents desire to entertain and at the same time instruct in matters that make for Christian living. Many parents, had they the time, would gladly make up stories for the young folks, stories that would serve their purpose. A mother who understands the parent heart has done this very work, and "Happy Hours at Home" is the result.

It is a story of trial, temptation, and victory in the life of young people, so charmingly told that the readers' attention does not wander. It interests both young and old.

A valuable reward for a worthy Sunday-school scholar.



Beautifully bound in cloth. 96 pages. 35 cents.

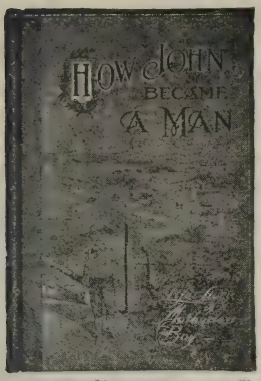
HOW JOHN BECAME A MAN. Life Story of a Motherless Boy

By Isabel C. Byrum



This interesting story is taken from real life. It is the narrative of a boy who lived in one of our Western States, and grew up without the advantages of a mother's loving care and teachings. John's desire to become a man led him into many bad habits that his companions said were manly.

Delivered from Evil Habits

He continued in his evil course, dancing, drinking, and using tobacco, until early manhood, when he came under the influence of the preaching of the gospel. He was converted, and became the true man he longed to be.

Get the book and read the full story. It brings out good lessons not only to boys but to parents as well.

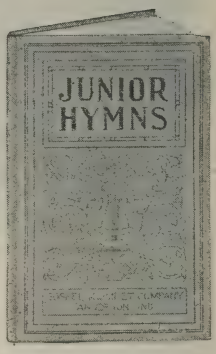
JUNIOR HYMNS

A New Hymn-Book Prepared Especially for Use in Sunday-Schools and for Religious Meetings of Children and Young People Generally

By B. E. Warren and A. L. Byers



Hymns that are learned in childhood and youth make impressions that last throughout life's career. They lodge in the heart, as the seeds of truth in the soul, to be revealed in maturer years, bearing an influence for good and inclining the soul to God and spiritual things. How important, then, that such hymns should be of the best!

"Junior Hymns" contains a number of old and tested hymns—gems whose luster has not dimmed but rather brightened by service—also the best selections from our earlier book, "Youthful Praise.' In addition, there are a number of hymns written specially for this book.

The hymns that are adapted to the smaller children are indicated by the word "Primary" under their titles. "Junior Hymns" has a topical index, which will be found helpful in selecting songs for special services. There are 153 hymns. Each of these has both words and music, which makes it easy for those who can read notes to learn every song in the book.

It is the largest and best collection of Sunday-school hymns that we have ever published, and we feel confident that those who order these books will be delighted with them. The editors took special pains to put only the very choicest of songs in this book.

A CONCISE CATALOGUE

OF THE PUBLICATIONS OF

GROSSET & DUNLAP

1916-17

THE Publishers invite the careful attention of all interested in the dissemination of good literature to the contents of this catalogue, as it is the most important offering ever made of good books at modest prices.

THE attention of librarians is especially invited and will be found well worth while, as an opportunity is presented for the replenishing of libraries, both public and private, school and church, that should be taken advantage of without delay.

GROSSET & DUNLAP
PUBLISHERS
BROADWAY-AT-26th STREET, NEW YORK
[1140 BROADWAY]

¶ The Grosset & Dunlap plan of republication of worth-while books at a moderate price has been the means of placing millions of volumes in homes where the low-priced magazines and the Sunday newspapers have heretofore held undisputed sway. The fact that good books can be had at such small cost has stimulated thousands of readers to establish libraries in their homes, resulting in such pleasure and satisfaction as can be derived only from the possession and ownership of books of real value.

¶ This catalogue offers probably the most extensive and comprehensive assortment of copyright fiction for adults and young people of both sexes ever brought together by one house. There are many volumes of serious import, however, and among the books for young people will be found two series of great educational value that should be found in every home where there are children; also numerous other series of purely recreational books for children of all ages.

¶ These books are all published at the lowest price consistent with good bookmaking, and they will be found in every way desirable and of permanent value.

¶ They are to be had in every bookstore in the country, or wherever books are sold; if such stores are not available they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Publishers.

David Grayson! A name to conjure with! How many people have won a new grip on the plain joys of living by reading these three books! They are unique in American literature—the personal impressions of a man who was dead and came to live among country sights and sounds.

No lover of books and life can afford to do without the Grayson books. "To be a Graysonian is to be fond of the open air, to love the stretching road, the sun on the shoulder blades, the golden riot of the autumn leaves, to slip away from everything and go a-wayfaring with joy for a comrade."
